

Dear Mishicot Community,

I am excited and humbled to write this initial letter to all of you, following my appointment as your Interim Superintendent of the School District of Mishicot. I am pleased to be able to join an exemplary team of educators, support staff, administrators, and board who have made Mishicot such a successful district, and I pledge to you that you will always have my best effort to continue this achievement.

I am confident that there will be a smooth transition, and my first month will be spent climbing up the “learning curve” to find out all I can about the schools. I will be having conversations with as many stakeholders as possible: board, principals, teachers, support staff, parent support groups, civic leaders, and members of the community, in order to find out what’s great about the schools and where we want to head in the future.

You will find me to be a welcoming person who seeks out communication, responds promptly, and my office will always be open for conversations, questions, or concerns. It is through establishing relationships that we can work out solutions to any of our issues in a positive manner. We all have an equal obligation to uplift our students to fulfill their dreams. My motto is: “Children are the living messages that we will send through our work into a time that we will never see.”

I hope to see you this summer at the ballparks, local festivals, and stores. Let’s talk about the schools!

Respectfully,

Lee Bush
